

Dr. J. J. Walsh Agents Raid the Delivers Address Old Evans Ale Plant at Hudson

Half a Million Dollars Worth of Equipment and Alleged Illegal Beer Seized—Eleven Men Placed Under Arrest.

The old Evans ale brewery at Hudson was raided Wednesday. This brewery which is one of the largest plants in that section of the country was operating under a federal permit issued during the regime of Palmer Canfield, former administrator of the Albany district. Half a million dollars worth of equipment and alleged illegal beer was seized and eleven men were placed under arrest.

Personally conducted under the direction of Captain George Golding, the raid was made by men from the Albany office and a squad of special agents. At 5:30 o'clock, Tuesday night the agents seized a truck load of alleged high power beer which they saw leave the plant and head toward New York. The driver was arrested and while one man was left to guard the prison the remainder of the agents hopped into the truck and drove back to the brewery where the signal was given and the gate opened. As the agents entered the yard of the plant they found two more trucks which they seized and arrested eleven men.

At that time it was after midnight but the plant apparently was going full blast and the men arrested were principally busy in racking off beer and placing it into barrels.

According to the statement of Captain Golding the activities at the Hudson brewery have been under investigation for some time and the raid was the result of a constant watch of twenty-four hours by federal men.

Agents are engaged in taking an inventory of the place and agents from sub-stations have been sent to Albany to relieve the agents of that office who are busy at Hudson.

All eleven men arrested were charged with conspiracy to violate the Volstead law and were taken to the Columbia county jail where they were held pending arraignment. It was expected they would be taken to Albany for arraignment today.

The brewery is one of the largest in the state, and antedates the eighteenth amendment by many years. The present operators received their government permit from Palmer Canfield. It was revealed at the Albany prohibition office yesterday.

This is the second brewery in the Canfield district which was authorized to operate during his administration against which charges of diversion of beer for illegal purposes have been brought. The first was the Fitzgerald brothers' brewery at Troy. Captain Golding said the Hudson brewery is much larger and was operating upon a greater scale than the Troy brewery.

Flexible Tariff Clause Beaten By 47 to 42

Democratic and Independent Republican Senators Defeat Policy Advocated by President.

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP).—President Hoover again must look to the House for support in obtaining legislation he desires, this time on the flexible tariff issue.

Having overridden the President's desire for continuance of the flexible tariff policy virtually as it is now, 47 to 42, the leaders of the Democratic-Republican independent coalition in the Senate, meanwhile, felt sure that they had, and could retain, control of the chamber and write a tariff bill to their liking.

The vote, they recalled, was virtually the same as that by which they twice wrote the export duty plan into the farm bill over the President's objections, and they expressed confidence that they could sustain their determination to confine the tariff revision to agricultural commodities and not permit the numerous rate increases proposed in the industrial schedules.

The Republican regulars, however, were equally confident that the lineup which voted to take from the Chief Executive his power to change tariff rates after investigation by the tariff commission, would be broken as the various rate sections of the bill come to a vote.

Many members of the group have reserved the right to vote as they please on proposed rate changes, and the regulars believe a number will vote for industrial rate increases affecting the interests of their own constituencies.

Under the flexible provisions written into the bill by the Senate, Congress would be given sole power to act upon the recommendations of the tariff commission, and would be restricted on such occasions to consideration of the rate or rates specified so as to prevent frequent attempts at general revision.

The bill was taken at the end of seven days of debate and after President Hoover in a public statement declared in favor of retention of this authority in the hands of the Chief Executive.

Hardly had the Senate time to catch its breath before it was confronted with another highly controversial proposal affecting the administrative sections of the bill.

Chairman Smoot announced he would bring up the committee amendments proposing the conversion within two years of all the ad valorem duties in the bill to a basis of United States value—the value of imported goods when offered for sale in principal domestic markets in wholesale lots—to supplant the present basis of foreign value.

Despite the Senate vote on the flexible tariff issue, President Hoover's friends in Congress were confident that the House, which passed the bill, 264 to 147, would insist upon continuance of the flexible policy. Democratic leaders, on the other hand, predicted that their substitute would win strong if not majority support in that chamber. Few members of the House were on hand to substantiate or deny either opinion.

Political observers, meanwhile, were left wondering what influence the apparently close organization of the House would have on the future political situation. The cleavage disclosed in the Republican ranks over President Hoover's two principal legislative proposals is recognized as the deepest in years.

The political significance of this division is regarded as intensified because of the active leadership of Senator Borah, of Idaho. He was perhaps Mr. Hoover's most prominent campaigner preceding last year's election. All of the Republican Independents with the exception of Senator Norris of Nebraska, in fact, were more or less on the Hoover firing line throughout that campaign.

The group represents almost a solid lineup of the northwestern agricultural states. Besides Senators Borah and Norris, the following voted yesterday against the Hoover flexible tariff proposal: Howell, Nebraska; Brookhart, Iowa; Frazier and Nye, North Dakota; McMaster, South Dakota; Johnson, California; Phipps, Oklahoma; and Cutting, New Mexico. In addition, Senator Norbeck of South Dakota was paired with this group.

October Term of Supreme Court Convenes Monday

There Are 431 Causes of Action on Calendar of Which Five Are Preferred Causes—Judge Russell Will Preside.

Judge Pierce R. Russell will preside at the October term of supreme court which will be convened at the court house commencing Monday, October 7. There will be a trial and grand jury in attendance.

There are 431 causes of action on the calendar of which five are preferred causes.

An unusual thing in regard to the preferred causes which appear on the calendar is the fact that two of the causes are penalty actions brought by the State of New York against defendants while two are actions brought to recover damages in negligence actions where the deceased was killed or died of injuries sustained in motor car accidents. The fifth case is one brought in an action where one of the occupants in the car was killed.

In No. 2, E. Aline Mackay seeks to recover damages for injuries sustained when she was injured in an accident at Shokan while a passenger in the car of Ralph M. Thompson which overturned while Miss Thompson was driving. One man was killed in that accident.

In No. 4, Nora E. Patterson and another as guardians seek to recover damages from Howard T. Brooks and Henry C. Elmendorf for death of a son who died from injuries sustained when a car of Brooks struck deceased at Saugerties while he was alongside the road repairing a motorcycle. At the time it is alleged the cycle was well off the road but that Brooks was driving in a reckless manner and failed to make a right angle turn and crashed into the cycle and drove its owner against a fence and crushed him. There is an indictment pending against Brooks.

Case No. 5, is an action brought by John T. Lytle, as administrator, etc., against George E. Walter of this city to recover damages for the death of the Lytle child who was struck by Walters' automobile on Cedar street. The child died.

Dr. Stresemann, Foremost German Statesman, Dead

In Ill Health for Months, Strain of Debate Brought Paralytic Stroke and Fatal Heart Attack.

Berlin, Oct. 3 (AP).—Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister and the Reich's foremost post-war statesman, died at 5:25 a. m. today of a heart attack which followed a paralytic stroke at 10 o'clock last night.

He was only 51 years old. He has been in ill health for many months. Although the paralytic stroke made useless his entire right side his physicians hoped he would rally. The heart attack came suddenly before dawn, however, and death followed. Frau Stresemann and his two sons were at his bedside.

For several days recently Dr. Stresemann was confined to his bed with an old catarrhal trouble, but he got up yesterday to participate in the Reichstag debate on insurance of industrial insurance, a political issue which threatened the collapse of the coalition government which he personally held together.

His physicians believed the strain of bitter debate in the Reichstag during the day so weakened his system as to bring on the paralytic stroke and the fatal heart attack. It was remarked that during the past few months Stresemann's most vigorous fights in the legislature nearly always had ended in a recurrence of his ailment.

Although Dr. Stresemann was not Chancellor, he personally was regarded as the backbone of the German cabinet, headed by Dr. Mueller, and many persons did not see how it could survive his death. A special meeting of the cabinet was expected some time today to consider what steps should be taken and whether it would be possible to hold the coalition together without him.

Speculation Over Foreign Policy.

Political circles speculated whether his demise would mark any material change in Germany's foreign policy, which since Dr. Stresemann's ascendancy has been one of cooperation with the League of Nations, and reconciliation with Germany's old enemies, with the honorable meeting of the country's Versailles treaty obligations as its cornerstone.

Death came too at a very awkward moment in the Reich's affairs when ratification of the Young reparation plan seemed certain to remain considerable opposition. It remained to be seen whether the loss of Dr. Stresemann as leader of the attack for ratification will alter the status of the reparations arrangements worked out so arduously at Paris and The Hague.

Observers commented that had it not been for Dr. Stresemann's efforts during the past few days the Mueller government might not have been able to survive the bitter wrangling on the industrial insurance question.

His People's party was in direct opposition to other government parties, and it had required all of his skill to avert a clash which would have spelled a government crisis. Wednesday he left his sick bed to enter the Reichstag debate, attending important party meetings afterward.

Even after he went home yesterday evening he was not able to rest but spent hours telephoning and attempting to bring order out of the political chaos which the question had brought to the Reich.

Dr. Stresemann's efforts at The Hague Conference on Reparations and at Geneva during the last session of the Assembly of the League of Nations took heavily on his health and the correspondents were shocked last Friday at a press conference to see him but a shadow of his former self.

He looked pale and thin, with his sunken cheeks a deathly white. He laughed, however, and said it was nothing, and that he soon would be feeling well again. But it was said that during the day yesterday his voice became so feeble at times he was able to speak only with great effort.

Rose From Obscurity.

Dr. Stresemann rose from an obscure deputyship in the days before the war to become chancellor twice, and foreign minister five times in German cabinets. He was in favor of a limited monarchy at first after the war, but as early as 1926 he declared he was willing to protect the republic with his own body.

It was he who brought a reversal of the Cuno creed of passive resistance to Germany's former enemies, replacing it with a policy of reconciliation which largely restored the Reich to much of its former international good standing.

News of the foreign minister's death crept slowly throughout the German capital; everywhere it came as a great shock. Flags were lowered to half mast and the city took an appearance of mourning. For Dr. Stresemann, perhaps as no other post-war German, commanded nationwide respect, even from his bitterest political enemies.

The Reichstag session at 10 o'clock was made a special session of mourning for his death. President Von Hindenburg, who spent his birthday at Schorfelde Lodge, was notified and was expected to return to the capital immediately.

Special Term of Supreme Court.

There will be a regular special term of the supreme court Saturday at the court house at 10 o'clock. Judge McNamee will preside.

Rochester was chosen as the next convention city. The merits of the town and its accessibility from all points of the town led the various delegations to lend their support to it.

Election of the various standing committees and honorary officers followed. The new district and conference officers were then balloted upon. The names were presented by Mrs. H. C. M. Ingraham, chairman of the nominating committee.

Election of officers was followed by a talk of the loose leaf system developed by Mrs. Joseph E. Appley, who entitled her address "System." The system, she pointed out, made for efficiency and inspiration in handling the detailed reports of the organization.

The awards were the next event of the session. The silver vase, emblematic of the home department, went to the Wyoming district for permanent possession. Two awards for stewardship, the first a silver cup given to the south district of the East German Conference, and the second, a five dollar gold piece which went to the East German district, were also given at this time.

The delegates, after the concluding session of the convention, Friday morning, will be taken on a scenic ride into the mountains. The trip will include the Ashokan reservoir, and the aerating plant.

"Echoes from India," a picture of the child marriage problem in India, was verbally painted by Miss Katherine M. Kinzie, who explained just what the marriage of children was doing to the young women of the country. She brought with her snapshots of girl widows 12 to 15 years old. "Lately," she said, "a law has been passed to prohibit the marriage of girls younger than 14 and boys younger than 18 on penalty of a prison sentence and fine."

Another picture of India, this time the farm life and problem of the hill people, was given to the audience by Miss Ida Grace Loper, who runs a farm in India for women and children. Her work is among the high caste Brahmins, who are hard to Christianize. Her farm consists of about 150 acres, 129 of which are worked by women. The problem of

Prizes Awarded.

After a selection by Ernie's Orchestra, Dr. Mary-Gage Day awarded prizes to the graduate nurses who earned honors during their course at the Benedictine Hospital Training School. Miss Anna C. Rich was awarded two prizes, the Dr. Rudolph Roth award for highest efficiency in dress and cleanliness and the Dr. H. Voss award in memory of a mother, the late Mary E. Voss, efficiency in the theoretical and practical phases of medicine. Miss Beth L. Wolf took the Dr. F. P. Masor prize for efficiency in the theory and practice and operating room.

Following the awarding of prizes, a musical selection and the singing of "Ave Maria" by Miss Gummer, presided by Miss Merriwell, diploma and class pins were awarded by Rev. Joseph B. Scully, president of the Benedictine Hospital. Those who received diplomas and recited the Florence Nightingale Pledge, which wholly consecrated them to their profession, were:

Mrs. Mary Austin, Kingston, N. Y.

Althea Belle Conyes, Coxsack, N. Y.

The Very Rev. Dean Scully then dedicated the graduates upon behalf of the management of the Benedictine Hospital.

A selection by the concert orchestra brought the program to a close. The graduates were then entertained by some of the teachers lingered to spend a social hour during which refreshments were served.

The Benedictine Training School committee consists of Dr. Mary-Gage Day, chairman; Dr. Harold Van Vleet, school physician; Dr. Fred Voss, the Very Rev. Joseph B. Scully, Professor B. C. Van Ingen, Berenice and Sister Callista.

Dr. Walsh's Address.

Dr. James J. Walsh, medical director of the Fordham University School of Sociology, in his address to the graduates at the graduation in St. Mary's Hall spoke briefly as follows:

"Young ladies. There are a good many people who seem inclined to think that with all these hospitals and above all with new schools opening before us all the time, we will not be long before we shall have a surplus of nurses and a number of them will find themselves with much to do and some of them almost nothing to do. May I say to you that it is not in our time that these expectations have been met, for I can remember as far as twenty years ago that the girls were being laid off. Of course I know that some of you are old enough to remember as far back as the first of you were babies in the

Five Killed at Grade Crossing

Warren, N. H., Oct. 3 (AP).—Five men, field workers for the New England Power Company, met instant death at the Warren village grade crossing of the Boston and Maine Railroad early today when their enclosed automobile was demolished by the Red Wing Express, north-bound from Boston to Montreal.

The crossing at which the accident occurred was unguarded. Ownership of the machine and identity of its driver was undetermined early today. The vehicle was demolished and the bodies of the victims strewn along the tracks.

Salvation Army Still Needs $800

The amount of $800 stands in the way of finishing the Salvation Army drive for $8,000. However, it is anticipated by the campaign heads that the lacking funds will be made up by generous citizens, who realize what the organization is doing along relief work lines. Friday night will be the last for a meeting of the workers.

It is felt that when the workers come together Friday there will be encouraging reports of the campaign's closing to give them. Every one of them has worked hard for the $3,000 goal and Ensign and Mrs. Vernon Van Syckle heads of the local Salvation Army post, feel very grateful for their aid.

Ensign Van Syckle hopes that those who were not called upon by workers, but realize the good they can do by contributing, will send their offerings, large or small, to him. He wishes to announce the campaign's success to his workers Friday and not that alone, but he wishes to get the amount asked for so that he may immediately plan his relief work for the winter.

Along with relief work, the Salvation Army plans on sponsoring athletics for Kingston youths this winter. Out of the conservative sum of $300, out of the $8,000, the gymnasium on North Front street can be properly heated and equipped for the purpose. The heating plant to be installed will take the place of 13 stoves.

Voluntary contributions may be mailed to Ensign Van Syckle now, so that they will be included in the total which is to be announced at Friday's meeting. It will open at 8 o'clock.

CLINTONDALE GRANGE TO HOLD EXHIBIT

Clintondale, Oct. 3.—The annual Grange exhibit at Clintondale will be held in the Grange Hall, Saturday evening, October 12. Fruit and vegetables will be on exhibit. Blue and red ribbons will be awarded for the best. Exhibits after being judged will be auctioned off.

There will be a table of flower exhibits in charge of Mrs. Harold Dinslee. There will also be a food sale of pies, cakes and bread. The school has been asked to prepare a collection for which red and blue ribbons will be given for the best work.

Prizes will be given the children for the best fruit and vegetables they have raised. There will also be a parcel post for the children. Frankfurters and rolls, sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream will be on sale. The public is invited.

The Clintondale Grange will give a chicken supper in October, date to be announced later.

McNamee Trial October 15.

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—Trial of George A. McNamee, indicted for the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, today was set for October 15 by Judge Max E. Levine in general sessions.

Mulligan Loses Ends of Fingers

James Mulligan of No. 9 Greenkill avenue, a brakeman on the West Shore railroad, lost the ends of two of his fingers by the sudden closing of the door in a baggage car at Stony Point on Wednesday. Mr. Mulligan was taken to St. Luke's Hospital at Newburgh where the wounds were dressed and later returned to his home.

As the train on which he was working was pulling into Stony Point on Wednesday, Mulligan was about to throw out some articles from the baggage car when the door suddenly closed catching his hand.

Trotzky Asks Attitude of Holland on Admitting Him

Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 3 (AP).—The foreign minister today said that Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet war chief, had approached the government of the Netherlands regarding its attitude to his admission into Holland.

The request was made indirectly but it was said that if it were made formally permission for his admission would be granted by the government.

M. Trotzky now is at Jena, near Constantinople. Germany and Great Britain, and numerous smaller countries, have refused him permission to spend his exile within their bounds. The former Kaiser, Wilhelm II, however, is living in exile at Doorn, Holland.

SOVIET CHARGE D'AFFAIRES ESCAPES OVER GARDEN WALL.

Paris, Oct. 3 (AP).—Paris newspapers today printed a piquant story of the plight of M. Bessedowsky, counselor and charge d'affaires at the Soviet embassy, who they said had left the service of the Kremlin government rather than return to Moscow.

M. Bessedowsky was said yesterday to have been seen to jump precipitately over the garden wall of the embassy with agility not usually associated with members of the diplomatic corps, and to rush breathlessly, and somewhat bruised, to the police station.

There he asked that his wife and child be rescued from their room in the building. He said the doorkeepers had threatened him with pistols when he tried to leave the building at the usual place of exit.

He explained that an agent of the G. P. U. or Soviet secret police, named Roisenmann, had accused him of bribery and had ordered him to return to Moscow.

The police secured Madame Bessedowsky and his child, and then turned them over to the counselor, who took them to a hotel.

M. Bessedowsky's heresies, according to his story, consisted of thinking the government ought to pay the peasants more for their wheat and charge them less for what they buy, and make the Soviets "more democratic."

POUGHKEEPSIE BUDGET ESTIMATE $1,522,405.78

A total city budget estimate of $1,522,405.78 for 1930 was received by the common council of Poughkeepsie at its meeting Tuesday night. This figure is $160,739.65 less than the amount of the preliminary budget for 1929 and is $82,498.82 more than the final budget for 1929.

Say Holland Will Refuse Request.

Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 3 (AP).—Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet war minister, has made indirect inquiry as to entering Holland, but will be refused if he makes a formal request. The foreign ministry today at first announced it had been approached in the matter, and that the requisite permission would be granted if formal request was made.

Bishop Murray Dies of Stroke

During Meeting of the House of Bishops—Was Head of Protestant Episcopal in the United States.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 2 (AP).—Bishop John Gardner Murray, head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, died today from a stroke of apoplexy during a meeting of the House of Bishops.

As the presiding bishop and president of the National Council of the Episcopal Church in the United States, Bishop Murray occupied a position similar to that of the Archbishop of Canterbury, ecclesiastical head of the Church of England. The presiding bishop of the American church is elected by the Episcopal general convention for a term of six years. Bishop Murray was the first presiding bishop thus elected, at the general convention of 1925.

Bishop Murray was born at Leesylvania, Md., August 31, 1857. After completing his theological studies, he was called to the Church of the Advent in Birmingham. Seven years later he became rector of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels at Baltimore, Md. He was elected Bishop Coadjutor in 1909 and two years later upon the death of Bishop Parot he became bishop of the Maryland diocese.

Bishop Murray's early business career took him for a period to Kansas, where he met Miss Clara Alice Huschker of Osage City, a member

Start to Move Perishable Fruits

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—New York's congested railroad piers were relieved of their stores of perishable fruits and vegetables today as buyers started bidding early to move the produce to markets pending further deliberation concerning the threatened strike of two thousand union truckmen. Nearly two million dollars' worth of produce was unloaded from the piers and New Jersey Railroad yards yesterday in view of the threatened walkout of the drivers, who are demanding shorter hours and more pay for overtime.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Oct. 2.—The meeting of the Classis, which was held at the Krumville Church, was largely attended by both ministers and members of the various churches. The church, which was nicely trimmed with potted flowers, extended a welcome to which all seemed to respond. After the morning session they all adjourned to the parsonage, where dinner was served.

Joe Seibert and wife are spending their vacation with Mrs. Seibert. Miss Parkes from Kingston has been spending the past week at C. Donohue's.

Mr. Bush is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davis.

The ladies of the place will serve a hot chicken supper at the parsonage on October 19. Everyone who attends is promised a good supper.

MEETING OF ACCREDITED HERD ASSOCIATION MONDAY

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Accredited Herd Association will take place Monday evening, October 7, at 8 o'clock, in the court house at Kingston. This association consists of over 1700 members who have had their cattle tested for bovine tuberculosis.

The work has progressed rapidly in the county within the past two years. The testing is rapidly nearing completion under the direction of a board of directors chosen by the members at the annual meeting. On October 1 the names of Edward Davis and Fred Duffin, as directors, expired. Their places must be filled by vote of the members.

Other business will consist of the secretary-treasurer's report and the report of the president and county veterinarians. Any other business member may have to bring up should be presented Monday night. The work is proceeding very smoothly and the directors are very anxious to have this continued.

Dr. E. T. Faulder, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Albany, will be the speaker of the evening. Dr. Faulder is directly in touch with the testing work throughout the state and should have considerable information to impart.

The meeting will be called to order promptly by President Davis, so as to allow sufficient time to cover all the work.

TWO CUPS THAT CHEER.

The "cup that cheers but does not inebriate" is immensely popular among the English people. Apart from what is consumed in the countries of production the British empire takes 70 per cent of the world's supply of tea. Great Britain alone takes 52 per cent, or 424,000,000 pounds, in 1928. On the other hand, according to the organ of the London tea trade, even "expensive propaganda has scarcely been able to arrest the decline in (tea) demand from the United States." Does this marked contrast in tea consumption
to any extent account for the marked difference of conditions in the two countries, including empty jails in the United States? It should be in the view of prohibitionists who attribute crime so largely to the effects of alcohol, for so much tea drinking—as refreshment between meals as well as at meals—must inevitably cut down the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Another cup that cheers (but slightly inebriates), now much in demand in this country, is "wine tonic" in a variety of brands and of high alcoholic content. An unexpected and embarrassing witness of its supposed virtues is the Rev.
E. C. Shumaker, Superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League.
Sentenced to 60 days for contempt
of the Indiana Supreme Court, Mr.
Shumaker refused to eat by way of protest, with inevitable physical results. Transferred from the penal farm to a sanitarium, he was doctered with a wine tonic and "gained eight pounds." Resenting the merry comment, he declared that what he took "as medicine" was his "own private affair"—a view foreign to that of the Anti-Saloon League which has long objected to the alcoholic "medicines" prescribed by physicians. Scandalized members of the League have induced Mr. Shumaker to give up his "tonic."
Whether they recommended the substitution of strong tea, which the British find so refreshing, is not stated.

EDUCATION OF ROYALTY.

The education of a young King presents difficulties. From Bucharest has come news of the collapse of an experiment in the education of young King Mihai of Roumania.
"Some," the report reads, "favored
a regular grammar school; others,
private tutors; at length a compromise was effected whereby a special school would be formed of thirty-six pupils from all parts of the Kingdom, with appropriate teachers, and the young King a sort of honor scholar. Some time ago,
however, the school was abruptly discontinued. And the reason was that he enjoyed sacrosanctity and that the other pupils were forbidden to molest him, began to beat them up with great zest." One of the boys in the school is thus quoted:
"Finally we decided that, King or no King, we would hit him back.
We did, and they stopped the school."

Another story in the same day's news suggests how it might be possible to prove to young King Mihai
that he can not expect to be sacrosanct under all circumstances. In the paralytic ward of the civil hospital of Guaraguil, Ecuador, experimenting physicians let loose a
"harmless" but nine-foot-long boa constrictor. With the result that no few of the paralytics leaped from their beds and fought each other to escape through doors and windows.
It was thus revealed which patients were genuine cases and which were only "mental." Of course no such heroic medicine is likely to be applied to young King Mihai,
but it is obvious that some similar experiment on a royal boy who hits too freely under the impression that his own skin is perfectly safe would be wholesome in its effects.

Kentucky has been using automobiles for some time, with the Alleged "Kentucky for Progress" claiming all over them, mixed up with the Kentucky farmers. It is impossible, but provocative. There is now a big row over the plan of the state authorities to go still farther with next year's tax. The state is having a good deal of sport over the matter. An authority of the state magazine wants to know, if these places are to inform the world that Kentucky is for progress, why not "Hilltop for Pineapple," "Georgia for Gin" and "Oregon for Ostrich"? Serious critics may ask what business

these places have on the state magazine, which are presumably meant for identification, and ought to be clearly legible, with a dignity befitting their official importance. It might be added that, on general principles, nothing about a car should be of such unusual character as to distract drivers' attention from their job. Advertising of any sort had better be left to other mediums.

Elderly people shouldn't feel that the world is shoving them aside, says
A. Casswell Ellis, an American educator who is making a specialty of adult education. The doors of opportunity are opening wider for them.
There is not one period of youth only,
he explains, but several successive periods. It has been found that people can learn and work effectively at almost any age, if they are in reasonably good health. There has been great progress in handling the degenerative diseases of middle life and postponing the onset of old age.
Former generations knew little of hygiene, balanced rations, vitamins, glandular balance, disease-producing infections in teeth, tonsils, adenoids,
etc. Just as medical progress has saved the lives of the young, it will prolong hereafter the lives of the old.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

AN EMERGENCY SYSTEM.

When you put fuel into a furnace whether that fuel is wood, coal, or oil, you get the heat from that fuel until it is completely burned or used. Similarly when you put fuel food into your system you get the heat and energy therefrom until it is all burned.
However in addition to giving you that heat, the food also gets built into the body, as the food you eat actually becomes a part of your body. However, you know that if you were to stop eating for days or even weeks the heat would still be kept up in your body, and you would still be able to do mental and a certain amount of physical work.
Why?
Because of that wonderful "sympathetic system" of yours, of which I have spoken before.
When any extra hard work is to be done or when no food is coming into the system the sympathetic system sets to work and the liver immediately gives up some sugar to supply the needs of the body.
An animal or a man in whom the sympathetic system is so damaged that it does not work, cannot have
this increase of sugar in the blood
when it is needed.
For instance, during excitement,
there is an increase of 34% of sugar
in the blood which is needed at this particular time. Where the sympathetic system is not working there is no increase, the animal simply cannot bring this sugar out of its storage place in the liver.
The advantages of the sympathetic system to you therefore is that if fueled starches foods for any time
the liver would give up some of its stored sugar until you were able to get some starches foods again. And it is quite possible that such a condition of affairs should arise. In the meantime that body of yours goes along just the same.
Surely your sympathetic system
is well named.
Dr. Walter B. Cannon puts it.
"You can live without the sympathetic system, but nevertheless the sympathetic system is necessary to meet the shocks and stresses of life. It is an emergency system."

Truth About Rabbits.

Rabbits are frequently seen sweet-ing under a powerful sun. The general idea of rabbits and all their kindred of the Arctic circle is that they live in conditions of eternal winter.
Quite wrong, Mr. Steffensen, the Arctic explorer, tells us. The wild rabbits of the Arctic are energetic, he says, and very few rabbits have even seen a snow house—or heard of one except at school!

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

RAY was in bad humor when he
got back to his cabin that night.
He strode in, without a word to
his cabin mate, Len Hickson, a fat,
merry fellow who combined the
dual rôle of banjoist and entertainer.
"Sort of chatty tonight, aren't
you?" Len observed jocularly. "Had a row with your best girl? Who is it? Not the cute thing in red who made such a flying dash towards
you this evening? She's some little baby. Hear she has married, too.
Boy, you're lucky."

A SLEEPLESS NIGHT

RAY was in bad humor when he
got back to his cabin that night.
He strode in, without a word to
his cabin mate, Len Hickson, a fat,
merry fellow who combined the
dual rôle of banjoist and enter-
tainer.
"Sort of chatty tonight, aren't
you?" Len observed jocularly. "Had
a row with your best girl? Who is
it? Not the cute thing in red who
made such a flying dash towards
you this evening? She's some little baby. Hear she has married, too.
Boy, you're lucky."

Len Hickson's bantering was stopped abruptly by Ray's menacing words.

And picking up his banjo, he commenced singing.
"Yes, sir, that's my baby. No,
sir, don't mean maybe. Yes, sir,
that's my baby now!"
"Oh, for heaven's sake, don't you get enough yelling to do all day?"
growled Ray.
But Len merely grinned and went on singing.
"Oh, I loved her in the morning,
I loved her at night. I loved her in the evening when the stars were shining bright. I loved her in the springtime and I loved her in the fall. But tonight on the top deck
I loved her best of all!"
But this, to Ray, was the last straw. It was the very tune to which he and Barbara had specially liked to trot in the old days.
He stood over the little fellow menacingly.
"If you don't shut up, I'll brain
you," he said in a voice that carried conviction.
With that he turned off the lights
and threw himself down onto his bunk.
But, of course, he did not sleep.
He had no hope of sleeping with that scene with Barbara still vivid
in his mind.
He wished that he had never taken this particular job, wished Barbara had never been aboard, wished . . . But what was the use of wishing?
Of course, it was out of the question, his marrying her! Barbara Landon and a penniless saxophonist—a situation good enough for the comic strip. Besides, it was not as though he were necessary to her.
In no time she would be married to some rich fellow who would look after her, perhaps the Englishman.
He was a dumb-bell, that Englishman, not good enough for Barbara.
Then he tried, seriously, to think
who was good enough for Barbara, without succeeding. She was so sweet or had been in the old days.
Now he could not see that she was changed, although she had told him that she was, and even if she were, what of it? Had he not changed too? He had been a queer fellow when Barbara had first met him: shy in a crowd, preferring to spend long hours at the piano or with a saxophone than going to places with the rest of the gang.
But Barbara, during the short time
they had been together, had changed all that, and his life since

had completely what he had begun.
When he had recovered from the first shock of his father's suicide he had gone directly to the Canadian woods, where he had worked for a season as a lumberjack. He had liked the rough outdoor life, but gradually, as his spirits revived, he came to yearn for the life to which he had been accustomed.
This longing was intensified by the fact that out there in the wilds
there was no place in his life for his mind. At college, the boys had considered him a genius because of the spontaneous manner with which he could improvise jazz. Jazz was in Ray's blood, he adored it, almost putting it on a pedestal and worshipping it, and from boyhood
he had dreamt secretly and continuously of the day when he could put his own compositions before an appreciative public.
A year later he went to Chicago,
where, in order to provide himself with the essentials of life, he washed dishes at night in a cafeteria and devoted his spare moments in the day time to composing.
One afternoon, when playing his saxophone, Bill Foster, a pianist who roomed opposite in the lodging house, had put his head around the door and asked Ray if he would care to join a jazz band which he,

Bill, was organizing. Ray had enthusiastically accepted.
Since his first engagement he had wandered to many cities. Finally, a few weeks previously, he signed up for this tour. He accepted his job of professional saxophone player
philosophically, even with a touch of humor, and never for a moment
did he allow himself to regard it in a derogatory light.
Of course, during the past years of vagabondage, there had been girls in his life. But not one had nipped
the place that had been Barbara's.
At first his desire for her had been agonized. But the intense longing had lessened until he had found himself loving her in a remote way, as one loves an unattainable dream rather than an actual living woman.
That she should come into his life again had seemed inconceivable. And now not only had he met her again, but she had actually asked him, even begged him,
to marry her!
How could such a marriage
achieve any possible happiness?
How could he ever marry her and maintain his pride, his self-respect?
No. It was out of the question.
He was glad he had given her fellows to understand that it was glad.
But, lying there sleeplessly in the uncomfortable, narrow bunk, he found himself going over the entire conversation, and certain words
she had used came back with a distinct sense of unpleasantness.
"If you won't have me then I shall take care that no other man shall want me."
Of course she could not have intended that seriously, still—there had been a queerly determined glint in her eyes and he remembered uncomfortably that in the old days Barbara had not been given to vain boasting. Great heavens, if for a moment he seriously thought—thought that she actually needed him. . . .
But at that, the perspiration
starting from his forehead, he sat up straight in his bunk and, with a vague idea that the pillow was unnecessarily hard, he clamped it severely while he cursed himself for a conceited fool!
(Copyright, Deal Press)

Barbara begins to make good her rash threat in tomorrow's chapter.

Ulster Garden Club Meeting

This week on Tuesday afternoon
the Ulster Garden Club was entertained by Mrs. Charles De La Vergne at her home on Clinton avenue. A prize of a silver loving cup had been given by Mrs. Francis Higginson to go to the member having the finest annual specimen, and after three years holding of the cup
by the same person it is to be the property of that person. This year the prize was awarded to Miss Katharine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge. The Harvest Tea prizes were also awarded on Tuesday as follows: Two-dollar prize to Mrs.
George Burgevin for the best exhibition of vegetables; two-dollar prize to Mrs. Kelley for the best exhibition of fruit; Blue Ribbon to Mrs. C. M. Hall for fruit; and Blue Ribbon to Miss Steenken for the most attractive breakfast tray.
The election of officers for the coming year followed the awarding of prizes and resulted as follows:
President, Mrs. William A. Warren;
first vice-president, Mrs. Charles A.
Finch; second vice-president, Mrs.
Clarke Reed of Saugerties; third vice-president, Mrs. George Burge-vin; secretary, Mrs. Everett Fowler; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Warren; historian, Mrs. Searing; librarian, Mrs.
Higginson; the two new members of the Board of Gardeners, Mrs. Dawes and Mrs. Finch.
Following the business session,
Mrs. Kelley gave a vivid and most interesting paper describing her trip
to England to attend the English-Speaking Union which had given this trip to the Garden Clubs of America, each affiliated club being allowed to send their president or one alternate. Mrs. Kelley went as the alternate from the Ulster Garden Club and told of her experiences in a most charming manner in addition to bringing much information
back to the members of her home club. After the paper tea was served.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Oct. 2.—The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Friday afternoon, October 4, at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Eli Mackey.
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell and son and Wilmet Traphagen and sister called on relatives at Middletown

WHY WE DO IT

Why We Make Excuses

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph. D.
Author of "The Springs of Human Action"

WE MAKE excuses to justify our conduct in our own eyes and in the eyes of others. It is a means of satisfying our conscience. Sometimes making excuses serves the purpose of putting us in the proper frame of mind to do what we want to do.
We also make excuses to shift
the blame on our act, to make it appear as though the other person were the aggressor. None of us wants the reputation of "hitting first. Nevertheless we want the advantage that comes from getting the jump on the other fellow.
This principle is vividly expressed in one of Aesop's fables.
It runs like this: A hungry wolf
one day saw a lamb drinking at a stream, and wished some plausible
excuse for making him his prey.
"What do you mean by muddling
the water? I am going to drink!"
fiercely said he to the lamb.
"Pray forgive me," meekly answered the lamb. "I should be sorry to displease you in any way,
but as the stream runs from you toward me, you will see that I can't possibly muddy it for you."
"That's all very well," said the wolf. "But you spoke ill of me behind my back a year ago."
"Nay, believe me," replied the lamb. "I was not then born."
"It must have been your brother,
then," growled the wolf.
"I cannot have been, for I never had any," answered the lamb.
"I know it was one of your lot."

ON REARING CHILDREN FROM CRIB TO COLLEGE.

Compiled by the Editors of THE PARENTS' MAGAZINE

The most successful way of securing obedience from children is to accompany one's instructions by adequate reasons for the desired action. For instance, you stand the best chance of having Shirley obey your request, "Shirley, when you cross the street, stop at the curb and look first to your left," if you add to it by way of explanation "because cars coming from the left would be on your side of the street." Or in the case of Billy, add to your request, "Billy, put your wagon in the basement," the explanation "because it may rain tonight and the rain will cause your wagon to rust and run poorly."

If parents have a bottle baby, they can manage very conveniently when they are out in the car and prepare his food without troubling people along the way. One family carried a container (a tall one-pound coffee can) a number three tin fruit can) and filled it with hot water from the radiator of the car to heat the bottle in. If the weather was hot or they went on long trips, mother placed the corked bottles in a deep can, and packed ice around them. She carried the sterilized nipples in a sterilized glass jar and also carried drinking water for the baby with them.

Fabrics for autumn are so lovely that mothers will surely feel the urge to fashion them into the attractive frocks and coats that are so easy this season to make at home. Woolens have a new and intriguing softness that makes tailoring, pressing and ironing easy. The ensemble coat is untried and wool materials are as easy to cut and sew as silk or cotton.

No baby is born with a sense of fear. Parents should be careful to see that fear is not developed. The habit that some persons have of suddenly jumping at a baby and crying "boo" or some other expression that startles him and makes him cry is pernicious and instills a sense of fear. Loud noises are almost sure to frighten any baby.

Learning to live is important and should not be left in the hands of people who have not themselves learned how to live. What it means is that parents should realize that they must teach their children to live, and not leave their living, the ways in which they meet the problems of life, to chance. It means that parents should study the way in which their children meet difficulties, should estimate the effectiveness of the child's methods, and should gently guide the child into ways which their fuller experience teaches them are more satisfactory.

Sandwiches are the backbone of the school-child's lunch box. The bread used should never be less than 24 hours old. Crusts should not be cut off, as they provide proper exercise for teeth. The sandwiches must always look attractive and contain a surprise filling, that will be appetizing and nourishing. Vary the size and shape, as that makes them more interesting.

A good general rule to follow in the care of cooking utensils is never to use a harsh cleaning agent if a mild one will answer the purpose. Always protect the fine polished surfaces of all cooking utensils and they will stay bright and look new much longer than if you scour them ruthlessly. Whenever possible use a polish rather than a scourer. If you want to avoid having scratched and dented aluminum and chipped enamel, use a wooden spoon instead of a metal one to stir and lift the food when cooking.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, Oct. 3.—Nine new members were added to the roll at the meeting of Rosendale Grange, No. 1501, P. of H., on September 23. A very large attendance featured the meeting. The ritualistic work was executed in a very efficient manner and the work of the team throughout the beautiful ceremonies won the comments of all present. Worthy Master C. P. Lefever, Jr., and Worthy Overseers George Kennedy, with their assistants, kept up the interest which is most encouraging to the Grange, whose growth is increasing. Following the business and initiation, a cordial welcome was extended to the new members, and hot coffee, assorted sandwiches, and delicious cake were served by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Rutger Ten Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. Nedra, Mr. and Mrs. Neidig, Miss Helen White and Mrs. C. V. Hasbrouck. The next meeting will be held October 14, in Firemen's Hall, to which all members are earnestly invited.

For every seasoning, every season, this salt is fine and free

Salt shakers that won't shake! Rock-like lumps in your mashed potatoes! How many times have you longed for a salt that is smooth and free and free-running always—in any weather? Your grocer has it in an attractive blue-and-gray carton.

The Proof: Two plates of sandwiches—some spread with Good Luck, the others with a much more expensive spread of identical flavor. Here is a money-saving hint for housewives.

Has that 60c flavor BUT COSTS MUCH LESS

To distinguish Jelke Good Luck Margarine from the older spread-for-bread is equally difficult—for it has the very same expensive flavor—always fresh, exquisite and delicate. One cannot be told from the other.

In many cities one out of every two housekeepers use Good Luck exclusively on their tables and for cooking and baking, because no difference in flavor is ever detected. There is none! Get a package today.

News Writing School October 8

For the first time in the history of the Ulster County Home Bureau a News Writing School is being launched. This came out of a demand from the women of the county to have help in the ever present task of reporting items of local interest to the county papers. Professor Hirstow Adams of Cornell is in charge of the school. It will be held in the Court House at Kingston, Tuesday, October 8th, beginning at 10:30 a. m.

An hour in the morning is devoted to actual instruction in which principles and practices of news writing are laid down. This is followed by luncheon at noon at Von Herz's Restaurant at which everybody present at the morning session and any others who may wish to come are invited. At this luncheon brief speeches by local editors and newspaper men will be given.

The afternoon session, after a short period for writing news items, is devoted to comments on the news items written by all of those who participated in the morning session of the school. These items are freely commented upon. The practical application of the principles taught in the morning are much more readily understood by actual example than in any other way.

An invitation is extended especially to all county correspondents from all the various organizations and county papers, and to any persons interested.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Tells Dyspeptics What to Eat

Strict Diets Often Unnecessary.

It is a well known fact that some foods have a strong tendency to produce excessive stomach acidity and consequent indigestion. By omitting from daily meals those foods that experience proves do not agree and limiting the diet to certain tasteless unappetizing foods, stomach troubles may, many instances, be slowly overcome. Nine times in ten, however, indigestion, gas, etc., are due to excessive acidity and the pressure, souring of food in the stomach. Keep the stomach clean and sweet by free use of this extra acid and then sufferers can eat the foods they like best and as much as they want in reason and have no stomach trouble at all. Thousands of people do this daily by merely taking after every meal a little Bismarck Magnesia, which can be had in any good drug store in either powder or tablet form. Bismarck Magnesia instantly neutralizes stomach acids, stops food fermentation and meals digest as naturally and painlessly as in the stomach of a healthy child. Stomach comfort means a lot and most folks like good things to eat. Enjoy them both by making Bismarck Magnesia your daily after-eating protection.

Far in the forests of Maine you will find beans like them. The North Woods cook could show you how the great, iron bean pot was filled with layers of beans and sugar-cured pork, sweetened with sugar and molasses, sealed with clay and buried in fragrant, smoldering embers thru the night in his earthen "bean hole."

No wonder they're so good.

All the tang of the deep forests—all the brawn-building food of woodsmen—all the delicious, distinctive taste and "baked outdoors" flavor—different and better than any beans you ever bought—Bean Hole Beans.

It's so easy to try them tonight. Turn the can in a buttered baking dish and put them in the oven for 15 or 20 minutes. See what your family says about the "baked-in-the-ground" flavor of piping hot, crispy, crackly, brown Bean Hole Beans. Two sizes, medium, 15c; large, 25c.

ANGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 3 (AP).—Engineers announced that they believed they had checked danger of a levee break north of the city and that the general situation was so improved that they believed damage from flood waters of the Savannah river would be confined to 100 blocks in the lower section, toward which waters from a levee break four miles below the town were backing up.

Presbytery For Women Ministers

The Presbytery of the North River at Meeting at Wappingers Falls Adopts These Proposals Without Discussion From Floor.

Voicing in favor of three proposed amendments with an overwhelming majority, and directly in opposition to action taken by the Hudson Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, the Presbytery of the North River, meeting in the First Presbyterian Church in Wappingers Falls on Tuesday, approved of giving women equal privileges of holding office and being ministers in churches in the United States.

Nearly sixty clergymen and elders from Ulster, Dutchess, Orange and Putnam counties heard the motion, which was formulated by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in America last spring, listened to the announcement that there would be no discussion of the three proposed amendments on the floor, and silently cast their ballots in favor of allowing women to become ministers, elders and evangelists.

The first proposed amendment: "Should women be admitted as pastors of Presbyterian Churches?" was carried by a vote of 35 to 13, 48 ballots being cast. The second: "Should women be allowed to become elders of Presbyterian Churches?" was carried by a vote of 34 to 14, 48 ballots being cast. The third: "Should women be allowed to become local evangelists?" was carried by a vote of 37 to 9, 48 casting ballots.

This action carries no actual power, it is said, the proposed changes to the constitution being made only by the national body after the opinions of the Presbyteries have been obtained, and there will be no possibility of accepting of women pastors in one Presbytery and not in another.

Rangers Clean Up Borger, Texas

PORT EWEN

Borger, Texas, Oct. 3 (AP)—Four squads of ranging militiamen, led by Texas Rangers, early today had the general cleanup of Borger, Tex., ordered by Brigadier General Jacob F. Winters, commander of the two state military units, was completed. Well known war with nearly two hundred arrests, most of them involving women.

Meanwhile the general military court of inquiry, which worked until last night, was preparing to make questioning witnesses in order to determine who assassinated District Attorney John A. Holmes on the night of September 13, and to trace the ramifications of an alleged conspiracy of depositors and county peace officers with criminals.

The raid, which General Winters estimated was designed not particularly to aid the main inquiry but to rid the oil town of those thugs who had not already left, went forward smoothly under the tutelage of the veteran Rangers, past masters of the business. Hotels, saloons, clubs, whiskey and jamalea ginger were confiscated.

The element of the spectacular was not evident in most of the calls paid by the squads. A knock at a door and a bit of calm conversation leading to the subsequent arrest ended most of them. At one place, a hotel room, the door had to be kicked in but those inside were found to be playing a game of cards with cigarettes for stakes. The young soldiers usually stood guard outside while the grizzled Ranger, nonchalantly, and with quiet monosyllables, conducted the main business within.

HI-Y CLUB WELCOMES NEW Y. M. C. A. SECRETARIES

At the second HI-Y Club meeting of Kingston for this year about eighty welcomed the three new secretaries of the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting started with the singing of "Stand Up And Cheer", which seemed to be a favorite. Walter Elston said the invocation and all sat down to a splendid meal which had been prepared by Mrs. Bulley, Mrs. Hutton, Mrs. Coutant and Mrs. Van Deusen. The supper was served by the members of the HI-Y Auxiliary.

The menu was as follows: Virginia baked ham, scalloped potatoes, cabbage and pepper salad, carrots and peas, cocoa and apple pie a la mode. Miss Mildred Haas, Howard Thomas, Warren Ingalsbe and Kenneth Newell furnished the music.

After the devotions led by Herbert Van Deusen, Toastmaster Watts called attention to the several faculty members in the audience and also to Principal Van Ingen of the High School and to C. A. Baltz of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors. He then introduced the new physical director, Guy Allen, who expressed his desire that the fine, active bunch of HI-Y boys would soon find themselves in the gym.

Mr. Fuller the boys' work secretary told of the many experiences he had with HI-Y Clubs and with men who have at some time been connected with the clubs. He extended a most cordial invitation to the men to fill out the purpose cards and become members of the club. However, he told them that if they signed the card it would mean that they were willing and ready to work.

C. S. Schoonmaker, the general secretary, expressed his appreciation at the privilege extended to him to meet the members of the HI-Y. Mr. Schoonmaker after telling several very humorous stories told of some advice he had received which was guaranteed to make him well liked in Kingston. The first thing they told him was to "be yourself". He said that altogether too many men think they will make a far better impression if they "put-on" while in reality they would go further if they would only be natural. His second point was "don't try to make the people think that you know it all".

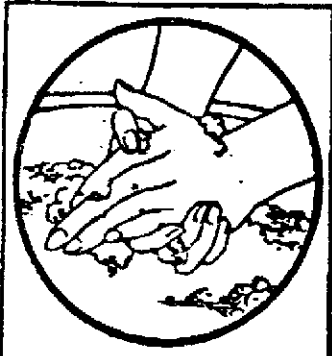

His third, "don't find fault" and he told how well he had found it worked out while secretary of the Gloverville Y. M. C. A. to find as little fault as possible. In his fourth point "look for chances to help people" he brought out the necessity of service in life. The last point he was given by this gathering was one which he suggested that the men practice extensively in their HI-Y work, "ask God to help you once in a while."

At the conclusion of each speech the members gave a resounding cheer for the speaker. As a fine close to the meeting all rose and sang "The K. H. S. Alma Mater."

There will be an important meeting of the HI-Y Executive Committee at the "Y" tonight at 7 o'clock.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR BUSINESS GIRLS' CLUB

The first supper of the fall season of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening in the gym with a large attendance of the club membership. Miss Mary Howard, the new president, presided most efficiently and welcomed the old and new members in a charming way.

Miss Eva Rand, vice-president and chairman of membership, spoke of what membership in the club means and urged each girl to make it her aim to bring in at least one new member during the year.

Miss Howard called attention to the fall booklet issued last week outlining classes and clubs for the coming year and urged the girls to sign up if they were interested in joining any of the classes, especially the French class which will open this week Thursday. She announced the following committee chairmen for the coming year:

Membership, Miss Eva Rand; program, Miss Ruth Bell; music, Miss Mildred Messenger; hospitality, Miss Bertha Waterman; social, Miss Helen Gronemeyer; social service, Mrs. Frances Lennox Whiting; budget, Miss Helen Lauber.

The program committee has already been busy with plans and a six weeks' course has been arranged for business girls and women, beginning after the supper program on Wednesday, October 16. Mrs. Myron Teller, formerly an active worker in the Cleveland Y. W. C. A., will be the discussion leader, and will carry on a discussion group on "Know Your Personality", such as was given in Cleveland with seventy members of the Business Women's Club. Those interested in this course are requested to get in touch with the Y. W. C. A. before October 16 and enroll for membership.

The question of a Halloween dance for the club was brought up and it was decided to hold such a dance on Wednesday, October 30. Particular mention was made of the Fall Rally to be held on Monday, October 21, in which all groups of the association will take part.

Following the business meeting, Miss Ellen Van Slyke, representative of the Board of the Business Girls' Club, gave a most entertaining travel talk on her trip this summer to the Yellowstone Park. Miss Van Slyke spoke in particular of Salt Lake City and the Yellowstone National Park. Next week's program will be in charge of the Maqua Delegates.

Officers Elected At Meeting

and breaking case was shown by her, in an effort to show how hard the problem was to solve.

Defendant then called upon E. R. Achery, general chairman of the local committee, to introduce the group to the delegates. This was followed by announcements and a morning offering. Mrs. J. F. Hadden, of Plainsfield, N. J., was the guest of honor at the meeting. She was accompanied by her husband, Mr. Hadden, and their daughter, Miss Hadden. The group was very interested in the work of the delegates who were to hear the old hymns.

A beautiful blanket, consisting of many pieces of colored cloth, was presented to Mrs. Robert Sharp, missionary in Korea, as a token of high regard by the women present at the convention.

Problems in Korea.

Mrs. Sharp briefly described the problems of the Korean women, and the problems in giving to the church. Because they have not the money to give, they save small amounts of rice from each meal and it is taken to the church to be sold there. This is the only way they can get their part in the church program. "Building in Korea," a discussion of the economic problem of the country was brought to the audience by Mrs. Lulu A. Miller. She also explained that the Korean women were establishing their own missionary organizations, and that they hoped to do conditions in countries that were worse than their own.

The Rev. Howard Thompson led a devotional program to close the morning session, after which the various departments met for a brief meeting before lunch.

The afternoon session included addresses on world peace, text book methods and an appropriation service. This evening a musical in the form of a cantata will be given under the direction of Harry Dodge, church organist.

Organ Recital.

Harry P. Dodge, organist of St. James M. E. Church, opened the second evening Wednesday night of the 50th anniversary meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, with a fifteen-minute organ recital. The program, put on by the young people of all of the Methodist churches in the city, was in charge of Mrs. F. Bradford Maskell and Mrs. Albert E. Beebe.

An address, "Forward," was given by Miss Alice Louise Smith, field secretary of young people's and student. Miss Smith informed the members, who jammed every available nook and crevice of the church, that some of the women's auxiliaries of other branches of the missionary organization were against including the young people concerning the missionary problem. She urged that they be given a clear understanding of the problem and allowed to participate in its working.

The missionary society is going forward all of the time, chain of kindliness are bringing the world together. The work of the missionaries is being pushed forward by those who are the road builders. You are helping them to sell Christianity in the far points of the world," she said.

The financial problem was raised by the speaker pointed out that the money was raised, the more there was to raise. Miss Smith asked that everyone give freely to the cause.

She presented another problem of work and prayer, which she pointed was often an inverted pyramid with many of the organizations. "Too often, we do our work and then ask for aid in prayer, why not pray first and then with the added strength our prayers will give us, attack the problem?"

Her third problem demanded that the organization follow the Cross with intelligence. Merely thinking of acting is not enough, the two must be used together, we must follow with our whole selves, she told them. "Let us go forward together, following Jesus."

Following Miss Smith's address, the missionaries present at the meeting were asked to the speaker's platform, and were introduced to the audience.

Over 100 in Pageant.

"America's Unfinished Battles," a pageant, under the direction of Albert Shultis, brought before the audience more than 100 young people and a lesson in ideals. The pageant was enacted in an approved manner, every one in the cast taking on her part in a finished manner. Opening with a fanfare of trumpets, calling the attention of the audience, Miss America took the lead in summoning her handmaidens. Patriotism and Service, between a quarrel was pending. Miss America, in her understanding and brave nature, took the judge's stand to test the arguments of either side in the hope of creating a better understanding between the two factions.

Patriotism summoned to her stand various arguments after there was no need for service. We have accomplished great things in this country, why not let us go on alone, and stand firm as a rock? Among her followers

she included the Pilgrims, the Pilgrims, men of 1776, winners of religious freedom, men of 1812, the people of the west, inhabitants of the islands, of the sea, Abraham Lincoln, suffragettes and the leaders of trade. With this formidable argument, she asked what more was needed for America, and left the answer to Service.

Service granted all of the arguments furnished by Patriotism, but doubted that America would be satisfied to rest on her laurels. "We have many unfinished battles to fight," she said. In support to her cause she brought the immigrants, negroes, southern highlanders, Latin Americans, lumberjacks, natives of Alaska, the Indians and American youth growing up in spiritual ignorance.

America, seeing the force of the argument, called for aid to help solve the many problems confronting her and in answer came doctors and nurses, students and religious workers, all of whom enquired about the meaning of American citizenship, the cord of life, happiness, knowledge and Christian fellowship. The problem of international relations was brought to the fore and America sought to take her place in world affairs.

Afternoon Meeting.

Mrs. E. M. F. Miller was the admirable presiding officer at the Wednesday afternoon meeting. In spite of the severe storm there was no abatement of enthusiasm on the part of over 300 women in attendance. The program opened with the usual devotional service conducted with forcefulness and keen spiritual insight by Mrs. E. T. Byles. Beginning at 2:15 o'clock, China as the center of missionary activities claimed the close and interested attention of all present.

Today young college women are finding the field of foreign missionary work one to challenge them and Miss Rotha S. Landis, with the gift of a pleasant straightforward manner of presenting her subject, told of "Young Women of Hwa Nan" (College). She described the added difficulties of a college education where the girls have to learn a foreign language—English in which to study, and possibly also have to learn the dialect of the province in which they find themselves at college. Yet they go at it with such earnestness that the teachers are kept on their toes to keep abreast of the work.

One unusual feature of this college life was said to be that of Patriotic Association, which has become very important in the last two years. Even representatives of the Nationalist government bring their problems to the students, and entirely without the aid of the faculty they assume the responsibilities thus laid upon them. Miss Landis said that their solution of the often complicated problems was admirable, and well thought out. Another interesting feature was that of the Sunday school work carried on by the Chinese college girls. The speaker gave a vivid picture of the children's Christmas party. She also told of the valuable Y. W. C. A. work, for this college has a 100% membership, and all departments are splendidly carried on. The evangelistic department with the servants and their Christmas party was also full of interest. Miss Landis closed by stating that the girls of Hwa Nan College want "to do for our own folks what our friends in America are doing for us," and she added that they were rapidly reaching the point where this was a possibility.

"The Good News in Fochow," as told by Miss Phoebe C. Wells, proved to be that more workers are now available for the valuable evangelistic work in that section and that they have a new and increasingly well equipped building in which to work. Miss Wells stated that the anti-Christian movement had not really affected the Christian work in China and she further told of more Bibles being sold in China last year than ever before—some five million—the same being more than in all other foreign mission countries. The speaker thanked those present for their help in making the new buildings, which will one day be a splendid evangelizing center, possible.

Different Angle Described.

Quite a different angle of missionary work in China was described by Miss Frances E. Woodruff who told of Evangelism in the Homes of Kinkiang. While it was a bit difficult to get within the homes of the poor until the women found the joy of meeting with each other in the missionary center, it was even more difficult to be real neighbors with the women of affluence who cannot read, need not sew since they hire such work done and whose lives are far from happy devoted to gambling, gossip, etc. Yet many such women have been reached and Christianity has made them happier and able to exert a better influence. Miss Woodruff's personal stories were appealing, especially when she told of a grandmother, blind and deaf, who could not be given a happier religion than that of ancestor worship. It was too late. So it is with many of that generation, and the hope for the future lies with the reaching of the little children and their mothers in the homes.

While the women of this Missionary Branch seem to be indeed spiritually-minded women, still they take a very practical view of their big religious work and the next subject on the Wednesday afternoon program was that of the "Treasury."

Excellent reports were given by Miss Grace Andrews, treasurer. Mrs. Fred L. Foster and Mrs. Clinton Morris. It would be hard to think of a greater contrast than the report of the first treasurer for the first year of the Branch—that of $2,974 and that of today's total, $297,589.44, of which sum $253,738.46 was this year's amount received from various sources and in various ways.

After deducting a sufficient sum to carry for all operating expenses of every sort—and what a vast amount of good done was represented there—a balance of $32,761.16 was left, the report being subject to correction and audit.

Following the treasury an exceedingly able and comprehensive report on the "New Frontier" was given by Miss Elizabeth M. Foster. Miss Foster recognized both uncharted frontiers of the past and new ones facing the missionary world of today, calling for pioneers as in days gone by. While Japan was said by one of her captives to be "Indeed proud of America as a friend, the people of the East are looking through eyes that are disillusioned, critical, and are possessed of a feeling of injustice and humiliation because they are being partitioned off, conquered and penetrated by Western nations lacking the quality of thought of the East. We can no longer preach a spiritual Christ to be followed and seem so materialistic that other Japanese are saying, God save us from the materialistic Americans."

Today education, industrialism, western philosophies are forcing out idol worship in the oriental countries and atheism and agnosticism are taking their places. New Japan is adopting a sort of Marxian-Buddhist philosophy that is full of elements that make the inculcating of the Christian religion very difficult in the future. There is a secular view of life along a wide-fung frontier. Again, as in Japan the government takes over work done by the missionaries in the past and even the present, the missionary is finding new frontiers of activities. China and India, too, have frontier problems. The younger, nationalistic churches must also be reckoned with and recognized as themselves breaking down old frontiers. Miss Bender closed by reminding her hearers that while the old frontiers might pass and old channels for the Gospel message be closed, the message itself could never be blocked and a great future awaits the spirit of Christ in the East.

The last speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Charles R. Hardie whose topic was "To Nobler Works." In which she told of various means of making the work of the Branch and its representatives of wider influence for Christ and called for enthusiastic younger workers that the unreached areas may be conquered.

The "Junior Hour."

The "Junior Hour," which brought the afternoon to a close, proved to be both unique and interesting. To the playing of a spirited processional hymn the youthful Charles Leach, son of the pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, there came into the church some twenty or thirty children, members of "The King's Heralds," and "The Little Light Bearers," two children's missionary societies from each of the Methodist Churches here. After they were seated, the various missionaries who are participating in this week of services appeared in the costumes of the countries from which they came. They greeted the children in the language of the foreign countries and shook hands with them, one by one, after which the boys and girls themselves gave a well presented program, following the giving of certain awards for special work done by their groups. Miss Alva Otis in charge.

The children from the three Kingston churches in charge of Mrs. W. N. Ryder, Junior District Superintendent, after singing a hymn, accompanied at the piano by Charles Leach, gave a Scripture reading, offered a simple prayer and gave a recitation, "When Jesus Was a Little Lad." This was followed by a clever little sketch in which the King's Heralds and the Little Light Bearers packed a box for their own missionaries. The singing of a hymn closed their program.

Depends on Personal Conviction.

Downers Grove, Ill., Oct. 2 (AP).—Prohibition, in the opinion of the Rev. J. E. Skillington, of Altoona, Pa., who spoke as a representative of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, cannot be made a success by legislation, but must be justified "through public opinion founded on personal convictions." He was speaker before the Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday.

THE ONLY ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

rugged, warp-proof, durable.

The General Electric—the first and only refrigerator built entirely of steel. It is as strong as a safe. It cannot warp. Its doors and sills, faced with warp-proof Textolite, cannot sag. It keeps cold and heat out more effectively than any cabinet that has ever been sold.

And the mechanism of the General Electric—how far ahead of the field that is! All enclosed in an hermetically sealed steel casing—unusually quiet, self-oiling, dust-proof—with an easily accessible temperature control. It is mounted on top, out of the way—leaving the greatest room inside the cabinet for food storage.

As evidence of guaranteed reliability—there are now more than 300,000 units and not one has ever spent a single dollar for repairs.

See all the models and ask about our plan of conveniently spaced time payments.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—Renewal of selling pressure in today's stock market, inspired by the tremendous increase in stock exchange member loans last month, carried United States Steel common and many other industrial, public utility and railroad issues to new low levels on the current decline. Loans in most of the active issues ranged from 2 to nearly 14 points. Commercial Solvents broke 15 1/2.

As in most recent sessions, trading was only moderately heavy, indicating the absence of any extensive forced liquidation. Many traders still hold to the theory that the current decline will not culminate until the volume of trading reached record-breaking proportions of the downslide.

Several efforts were made to rally the general list, but offerings invariably increased as prices rose and the attempts were abandoned.

Call money renewed at 7 1/2, dropped to 7 and thence to 6, the lowest rate in about a month, but the time money market continued firm at 9 to 9 1/4 per cent.

Sears Roebuck reported September sales were nearly $7,000,000 above the same month last year. Baldwin Locomotive stockholders approved the recapitalization plan. The corporation's unfilled orders were given as $16,000,000.

United States Steel Common, which sold as high as 22 1/2 yesterday and closed at 22, broke to 21 1/2. General Motors sank nearly 2 points to another new low level for the year at 64 1/2. General Electric dropped 8 1/2 points and Radio sold down more than 3 points to 83 1/2.

A. M. Byers, Burroughs Adding Machine, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Johns Manville, Montgomery-Ward, New York Central, Allied Chemical and Air Reduction crumbled 5 to 7 points while Atchafalpa, Canadian Pacific, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Sears Roebuck, Dupont and American Can sold down 3 to 4 points.

Columbia Carbon was an outstanding strong spot, climbing 1 1/2 points to a new high record of 30 1/2. Texas and Pacific and Warren Brothers also showed independent strength.

Believe Coste in Siberian Forest

Moscow, Oct. 3 (AP).—A despatch from Verkhue Udausk, Siberia, to the official Tass News Agency, today said that Russian authorities there thought Desdunne Coste, famous French aviator, who disappeared on a long-distance flight from Paris to Vladivostok, Siberia, had lost his way in the forest of Barbutin.

Coste and Maurice Belloste, who left Le Bourget field last Friday morning with fuel for fifty hours of flying, were seen on Sunday over the Barguzin region, which is 175 miles northeast of Irkutsk.

This news corroborates other reports which said that the French plane, the Queston Mark, had been sighted in the region northeast of Irkutsk.

The Russian government is concentrating on a search of this district, but primitive communications may delay news of the aviators for some time.

Y. M. C. A. Staff Meets Y's Men

The Kingston Y's Men's Club held an exceptionally peppy and enthusiastic meeting Tuesday evening at the "Y" with President Morton McLoughlin as master of ceremonies.

After the excellent dinner prepared as usual by the Misses Davenport and efficiently served by Mrs. Jay Vandenberg and Mrs. Earl Leemon, President McLoughlin introduced Robert Severy as a new member. He was given the usual hearty welcome.

The president then called upon Tom Rowland to introduce the new members of the Y. M. C. A. staff, who were the guests of the club. The new general secretary, Clarence Schoonmaker, in a very clever five-minute speech, said that with all the splendid traditions back of the local "Y" and the fine work it had accomplished in the past he felt confident that with the continued loyal support of the Y's Men's Club the future held tremendous possibilities and by working shoulder to shoulder with the members of the staff the Y would continue to be a power for good in the community.

Guy Allen, the new physical director, said that he was here to be of the utmost service to the community and asked, too, for the hearty cooperation of the Y's Men.

Earl Leemon, chairman, reported that his committee consisting of Stanley Winne and Ernest LeFerre, had made all arrangements for a surprise dance and social time at their Charles Ramsey Lodge for Tuesday evening, October 15. All the members were urged to keep this date in mind.

President McLoughlin surprised the members by announcing that plans were under way to inaugurate a "Y's Guy" branch in Kingston, which will be one of the first in the world. In fact the idea is original with the president. It will be called the "Joe Withers Y's Guy Lodge No. 1" in honor of Y's Man the Rev. Joe Withers. Dr. Julian L. Gifford will have the honor of being the first "Chief Y's Guy". A more complete announcement will be made next week. Clarence Wolfenstein was appointed treasurer and Warren Smith secretary to act for the next six months of the club's year.

Y's Man G. Warren Kias, physical director of the Kingston schools, gave a fine address on "Football". Coach Kias made clear many points which the majority of the fans do not quite understand. He also explained some of the new rules in effect this year and in the short time allotted him covered the ground in a very thorough manner. At the close of his address he answered many questions that were asked. His talk was thoroughly enjoyed and he was heartily applauded at the close.

The meeting next week will hold a number of surprises.

Chinese Tit-Bit
The Chinese regard as a delicacy the nest of the swallow or swift of related species of swift or swallow of the Malay archipelago. It has the shape and size of half a teacup, is attached to the rock in the interior of a cave, and has the appearance of a porous gelatine or lumps. It is composed of a mucilaginous substance secreted by special glands, and is not, as was formerly thought, made from a glutinous seaweed.

Considerable "Explanation"
A brother and sister, six and four years of age, respectively, spent a considerable part of each day playing together. One day their father found them sitting in little red chairs, rocking their dolls. He inquired of them what it was they were playing and they replied "Mother," explaining further that they were both "widows." "How can that be?" asked the father. "Oh," they said, "we're married to dead men."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Right-of-Way
The movement to clear the tracks for genius brought a sort of decision from the famous California educator David Starr Jordan. "Genius," he declared, "recognizes no obstacles. That is part of the genius. He who must have his way made smooth is but an ordinary mortal."

"Looking back over a long period, it is my opinion that the world always turns aside to let any man pass who knows where he is going."

Lost Boy at Relyea Home

A crying boy, between three and four years of age, drenched to the skin and pulling a master wagon was found at the corner of St. James and Pine streets this noon by Abram Relyea, manager of the L. S. Winne hardware store, who took the lad to his home where he remained unclaimed until the time that The Freeman went to press.

Efforts to learn the boy's name were unavailing. Mr. Relyea, Mrs. Relyea and the police, who were notified, could not understand the boy. He cannot speak very plainly and as near as could be made out his first name is Tom, Don or Dan.

The boy's plight did not prevent him from enjoying a dinner at the Relyea home, where he is being made comfortable. He donned dry clothing, given him by the Relyeas before he ate, and after the meal just waited for someone to call for him.

Three Deaths from Market For Fruits Storm on Coast And Vegetables

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—The North Atlantic Coast was recovering today from the effects of a northeast wind and rain storm which battered it from Maine to the Delaware estuary. Three deaths in New Jersey and one in Pennsylvania were attributed to the storm.

The wind, rain and high tide combined to disrupt coastwise and harbor traffic, hamper urban transportation and damage exposed resort property.

Ferry service was interrupted when the wind and tide piled up the water in New York Harbor so that boats could not be made fast in ferry slips. River water backing into sewers prevented the carrying off of torrents of rainwater and flooded streets in lower Manhattan.

The wind reached a maximum of 55 miles an hour along the New Jersey coast, where high tides and heavy seas inundated beaches, washed away a section of boardwalk and undermined six cottages at Point Pleasant. Damage was also caused at Barnegat, City, where the sea broke through the jetties, endangering the famous Barnegat lighthouse. A fisherman was drowned near Paulsboro and two men were killed at a crossing near Hawthorne.

The storm sweeping across Pennsylvania brought steam near flood stage and resulted in the death of an unidentified farm hand who was killed when a building in which he took refuge was blown down near Clifton, Pa. The Schuylkill River rose eight feet at Reading, Pa.

Lemuel Davis will talk in the evening. All are invited to attend these services. Mr. Davis will bring two gentlemen with him who will render duets.

New York, Oct. 3 (AP). (State Department of Agriculture and Markets).—Liberal supplies of white potatoes were on hand today at most wholesale terminals. The market was steady. Trading was moderate. Jobbing sales on upstate round whites, in bulk, were made at $4.40 to $4.50 per 150 pounds. Maine Green Mountains sold chiefly at $4.75 to $4.85.

The market continued decidedly dull and weak on western New York cut carrots. Washed carrots peddled out at $1 to $1.12½, occasionally at $1.25 per bushel basket. Unwashed realized 65 to 75 cents and off grade sold lower.

Prices averaged a trifle higher on celery. Receipts were light. Trading was moderate. State varieties, in the rough, peddled out as high as $2.50 and as low as $1.25.

During the preceding week, the carlot movement of celery from this state amounted to 145 cars as against 113 during the week before.

Concord grapes were in limited receipt. Values strengthened. Most of the best offerings brought 57½ cents per 12-quart basket.

Supplies of cabbage were moderate. The market closed stronger, especially on fancy. The demand was improved slightly. White Danish cabbage in bulk, sold at $25½ to $28, occasionally $29 per ton.

To September 21, this state shipped 1,492 carloads of cabbage, as compared with 938 for the same period one year ago.

The short supply of spinach sold readily and prices tended upward. Offerings from upstate, packed in lettuce crates, brought as high as $1.25. Bushel baskets from nearby sections commanded up to $1.75.

Price changes on upstate lettuce and romaine were unimportant. Fancy stock met a fairly good outlet, but inferior received scant attention. New Jersey lettuce and romaine is gradually increasing in value. Big Boston lettuce from this state brought 50 cents to $2.50 per crate and romaine 25 cents to $1. New Jersey lettuce realized $1 to $2, and romaine $1 to $1.75.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT HEADQUARTERS

Friday and Saturday Suggestions.

Save by painting NOW with SWP

If your house is even slightly weather-beaten, paint now for economy. Give your house an armor-like coating of SWP—protect it against ruinous winter's rain and snow—and save costly repair bills.

Fewer gallons of SWP are needed because its wonderful "body" thoroughly covers more square feet of surface per gallon. Therefore it costs you less per job. Call us for an estimate—positive proof of the economy of SWP. Come and consult our beautiful new color schemes. This aid is yours merely for the asking.

Misery loves company, so the old saying says, but it is terribly hard on the company.—Rushville Republican.

Just look over these values—all of guaranteed quality—for Friday and Saturday. And remember—we are right here on the spot to make good anything which fails to give satisfaction.

We are particularly proud to recommend the famous Sherwin-Williams line of paints and varnishes. By actual test and through long experience, we know them to be the best on the market.

Paint is easily adulterated. Nobody can tell much about paint by looking at it in the can. But a few months after it is applied, the super quality of SWP is apparent to anyone. We sell SWP because it lasts more than twice as long as cheaper paint—because it gives absolute satisfaction, retaining its clean, true colors to the very last—because it is the world's greatest paint bargain.

Pitching Marks of Pat Malone and Earnshaw

(By Ann Gould)

Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—The World Series battle front of 1929 is perfectly arranged for an iron-pitching performance with George Earnshaw of the Athletics and Pat Malone of the Cubs picked as the leading candidates for the role.

These two fast-ball right-handers have thrived all season on plenty of work. They have finished stronger than any of their curving mates and the probability now is that they will face one another on the opening series day at Wrigley Field next Tuesday. Malone, at least, seems a certainty, although Connie Mack would not hesitate to switch to Robert Moses Grove if the willowy southpaw manifested a sudden return to his mid-season form.

The schedule for the series is so arranged that it would be altogether possible for Malone or Earnshaw, assuming that they are the first game selections, to throw four games, still having three days of rest between each assignment. This, of course, would hinge on the series being the limit of seven games. Two days of traveling and the Sunday of rest in Philadelphia, give the pitchers more than the usual amount of time to recuperate.

The one certain thing so far as the pitching is concerned is that it will be a fast-ball series. The "Big

Three" of the A's, Earnshaw, Grove and Walberg, all have tremendous speed. So have the main Cub trio, Malone, Guy Bush and Charlie Root. Otherwise the vital factor of mound work, considered 50 per cent of any World Series battle, is largely speculation. When he is "right," there is no better pitcher in either league than Grove but the portlander has been of form since July. The Red Sox pounded him all over the park in his last performance. It will be an especially heavy blow to the A's if Grove does not regain his form for the series. He is the ace of the staff and Mack's chances of victory are generally considered to depend on whether he is "right."

Guy Bush was the Cub ace until around the middle of August but he hasn't lasted a full game since then until yesterday when he dropped a close decision to the Reds. Walberg has been erratic; so has Root although the latter pitched a 1-0 shut-out this week. These stars may need the inspiration of a real battle to bring them back to form. There wasn't much to worry about while the two clubs were galloping to panoramic victories by one-sided margins.

Any one of several lesser lights in the pitching casts may come through if the stars fade. The A's have old Jack Quinn and his splitter to rely on. Jack was pitching when Walter Johnson and Grover Alexander were rookies but he still has enough stuff to join those two stars in the World's Series hall of fame. The Cubs have Hal Carlson, a fourth right-hander of long experience, in reserve, along with Sheriff Blake and Artie Nehf, the old Giant southpaw ace. If it comes to an issue between relief men, Mack can rely on Rommel Shores and Ehmke.

Captain Mooney had a nail torn from his right thumb in a recent scrimmage and was forced to retire from hard practice until it mended.

Charlie Molvin Coming Back

Charlie Molvin, who quit the ring after several setbacks that followed a spurt to the ladder top of soldier boxing, is to make a comeback this season, maybe Friday, October 11 when National Guard bouts will start for the winter at the armory.

Molvin is said to be in form for the opening program and is anxious to get a "shot". Captain Lawson, Charlie's commanding officer and athletic director of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, seems interested in his comeback and has expressed intention of looking him for the first show, along with several other locals.

Three years of soldier boxing here has created interest among local boys and Lawson has a number of new faces for this winter's bouts. One of the best seasons ever enjoyed by local fans is promised by the National Guard.

It is the intention of Captain Lawson to bring Billy McMahon, present holder of the soldier lightweight honors, here to meet Nick Zinna. Just when the bout will be staged is not known, but it is only one of the many stellar contests promised by Captain Lawson.

McMahon holds one win over Zinna. The fight was held in New York and was a real hot ring argument. It is said, McMahon was not lightweight champion at the time but gained the crown shortly after meeting Nick. He later lost to George Baldock who held it until last Tuesday when McMahon handed him a shellacking in New York.

Arrangements for reserved seats may be made by stopping at the armory or by phoning. Those who wish the choice chairs are advised to do their reserving early.

Sport Notes

The Eastern league barred the lively ball this season.

Penn line prospects are good this fall, and that is unusual.

A golf course is being planned in Moscow, the first of its kind in Soviet Russia.

Head Coach Bernie Bierman of Tulane is a reserve captain in the marine corps.

In a game with Baltimore, Pitcher Goldsmith of Newark, pitched only one ball and was charged with defeat.

The Cincinnati Reds have employed Bill Shipke, former Western league, third baseman, as an ivory hunter.

Pitt's football team, known as the Panthers, got their nickname from Panther Hollow, a ravine near the campus.

Navy will play two games on Franklin field, Philadelphia, this year—with Penn November 2 and with Dartmouth November 30.

The International league probably will shorten its schedule to 154 games in 1930, and do away with the seven-inning double-header.

The New York Giants announce the purchase of the contract of Herbert Pruett, left-handed pitcher, from Newark of the International league.

The longest odds ever paid to the winner of a race on Canadian tracks were $380.10 for a $2 ticket to Old Pop who came home first at Hamilton in 1910.

Heien Willis, American tennis champion, and thrice winner of the women's title at Wimbledon, England, has announced her retirement from active foreign competition.

The record for pitching victories in the major leagues is held by Cy Young, who won 201 in the National league and 220 in the American league within a twenty-two year period.

Chicago Cubs, valued at $5,000,000, were sold to Charles W. Murphy in 1906 for $105,000. William Wrigley has more than $8,000,000 invested in baseball in Chicago and Los Angeles.

On the last two days of the spring meeting at the Aqueduct track in 1928, Johnny Callahan, veteran jockey, won six consecutive races, the last two events on July 5 and the first four on July 6.

Forty thousand Western Electric workers in Baltimore will have a $400,000 field house, 16 tennis courts, baseball diamonds, golf course and track. They must play only among themselves.

Manager Wilbert Robinson, of Brooklyn, may trade Denny Vance, McWeeny, Bancroft, Brenner, or the whole team. He says: "I'll trade anybody and make any deal that will improve my club."

During the Inter-Allied swimming championships at Paris, Norman Ross, the "Big Moose," raced in every event from 100 to 1,500 meters, making enough points himself to win the tournament for the United States.

Winning the qualifying medal in tournaments is considered a flax by golfers. Bobby Jones and Dave Hearn are the only ones to succeed in capturing both the medal and title in the United States amateur championships.

Industrious Author
Str Walter Scott is an example for budding authors of today. He rose at four every morning and worked 15 hours a day. He averaged a book every two months, and the Waverley novels were written at the rate of 12 a year.

Poughkeepsie Course Planned for Wisconsin

Elaborate changes in the program of the Wisconsin varsity crew have been announced by Mike Murphy, new Badger crew coach.

Madison will become a second Poughkeepsie if the coach's plan for a boat-house and course and construction of observation cars by a local railroad materialize.

Murphy made a tentative agreement with railroad authorities for the construction of observation cars to run on the railroad tracks that border two miles of the new course along Lake Monona. The proposed course would make a straight sweep the length of the lake.

The change from Lake Mendota, where present training and racing is done, to Lake Monona is being considered because of the more sheltered position and the fact that it usually is available earlier in the spring.

Take His Title

Mickey Walker's title as the world's middleweight boxing champion was declared vacated by the National Boxing association at its annual meeting at Chicago.

Green Socks Expensive to One New York Player

George Whitted, Durham manager, tells one on John McGraw. McGraw was jumping on his players for shooting craps. He had fined about three the sum of $100 and then turned to a fourth and asked him if he, too, wasn't shooting craps the night before.

"No, Mac," replied the player, "I wasn't shooting 'em last night, honestly, I wasn't."

Then McGraw, in a furious mood, let his eyes glance upon some green socks the player was wearing.

"Well," said Mac, "it's going to cost you just $100 for wearing those green socks. The idea of one of my ball players trying to primp up like that. Don't you let me see you with 'em on again or I'll cost you another hundred."

There is no record of the green-sock attired ball player ever having his cash returned.

Robins' Pitcher Loses 11 Pounds in Winning

William Watson Clark, young southpaw of the Brooklyn Robins, knows why pitchers weaken in the closing innings of a game, especially during hot weather.

Clark pitched the Dodgers to a 9-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals the other day, but was lucky to last out the game. He explained it this way:

"Before the game I got on the scales and weighed 167 pounds. After the game I weighed 156 pounds, a loss of 11 pounds."

Clark, however, draws some satisfaction out of the fact that a big dinner, plenty of water, a good night's rest and a heavy breakfast brought him back to his original weight the following day.

Cat a Bad Patient

In dosing a cat it is well to wrap her in a towel to prevent scratching. Cats are bad patients, and never seem to realize, as a dog does, that you are trying to alleviate their sufferings. Liquid medicines are most easily given in a fountain-pen filler.

Kohler Sinks Hold Water!

Why shouldn't a kitchen sink hold water without the use of a pan—can you tell us?

The ultra-modern Kohler Sinks that we sell do hold water. They have a remarkable new improvement, the Duostrainer, to keep the water in when you want it and let it out with a rush when you are through. An added convenience is a removable strainer cup which catches debris and lifts out for easy emptying.

The Duostrainer is only one big new efficiency feature of Kohler Sinks. Come in and let us tell you about the others.

The Democratic party held their caucus Thursday night and it is learned they have an excellent ticket in the field, with the exception of supervisor, which nomination at present so far as known is vacant. Peter Harp was nominated for supervisor, but due to business at Pine Hill he was detained and did not arrive until after the caucus was over. Upon learning of his nomination he told the committee he had not requested the nomination from anyone and had told everyone who had spoken to him about it, that he would not be a candidate. He definitely told the committee that he would not run and that if his name was put on file as a candidate for supervisor, he would take such steps under the Election Law as were necessary to have it removed.

A flying rumor never has any trouble in making a landing.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The All-Black Coat Is Impressive.

New York—The smart world is quite accustomed to the idea of colorful winter coats and to sharp contrasts in fur trimmings. Possibly this is why many of the more exclusive shops are featuring black fur coats for winter. The all-black coat has taken the town by storm, when one is thinking of coats in terms of formal wear. The top coat and the coat which completes the less formal ensemble has a way of being colored and bows to no law when it comes to trimming.

While the jacket illustrated completes an ensemble, coats of this length and so trimmed may serve several purposes. There are many velvet and metal cloth evening coats which are as short, and which are similarly trimmed. The fur bordered jacket is most important this fall, and to the average woman its uneven line is a blessing.

One occasionally encounters a straight line coat, but the fare is approved, even though it occurs at a low level. Coats repeat the trimming detail of the dress they complement, although they may introduce a contrasting color or fabric.

Among the fur trimmings sponsored must be mentioned both mink anditch although one undoubtedly is more impressed by the extremes of astrakhan, ermine and fox.

When in doubt select black broadcloth seems to be sage advice, and when uncertain as to its trimming, one may play safe by employing matching Persian lamb. Taken on the whole one feels more confidence in the chic of the shorter, flat or curly pelts.

ANOTHER SURVIVOR OF THE 120TH REGIMENT.

Sundown N. Y., Sept. 30, 1929.

Editor of the Kingston Freeman.

I saw in your paper where William Henry Smith of Toledo, Ohio, had been visiting friends in Port Ewen. He said he was the last surviving member of the 120th Regiment of New York. It happens to be a mistake, because I am a member of Company B, 120th New York.

I went with the regiment when it went to the front. I went in August, 1862, and was discharged June 16, 1865. I was wounded July 2, 1863, in the battle of Gettysburg and was in Andersonville Prison ten months. All they gave us to eat was one pint of corn meal each day, ground cob and all. I was 90 years old September 11, 1929, and there are now five generations living in my family.

Yours very truly,

Airplane Designations

The letters on the wings of airplanes have the following significance: N is an international symbol which designates that the plane is from the United States; X designates that it is an experimental plane; C designates that it is a licensed plane. The numbers have no special significance aside from the fact that they show the number of registration of the plane.

Dr. J. J. Walsh Delivers Address

arms, but I can assure you that before the war we used to have much about the saturation of the nursing profession and that there were enough of them already and that it was foolish for young women to take up this profession that requires three years of good hard work and which, according to the pessimists at least, was not likely to yield any adequate return.

"May I say to you at once that there is no truth in these expressions and that we are likely to need a good many more nurses for a good long while. Of course one of the reasons for this is that the doctors and some other young men have discovered that it might be an excellent thing to have one of these trained young women engaged as a perpetual nurse for them. I believe that about fifty per cent of all the graduate nurses marry within ten years. If you want to know the reason why, well, I can't tell you personally but I should say to the audience in old-fashioned Latin, si vis rationem circumspice, if you want to know the reason why, just look around and see how attractive graduate nurses can be.

"There is a much more important reason than this absorption of nurses by particular individuals for the continued need of nurses and I think it is important that not only our graduates should realize but this audience should know it because it will help them to understand the need for hospitals in our day and the necessity for ever increasing care of the ailing. What has been said about nurses has been said also about hospitals that surely by this time we have enough of them for we have ever so many more than we used to have and those that we have are being added to all the time and new ones are planned until it might seem that we would surely be overhospitalized.

Preventive Medicine.

"May I say to you at once that there is no danger of that for a good while yet. We have greatly increased the number of hospitals but we need ever so many more and we need to equip and enlarge those that we have so as to be able to handle more patients efficaciously.

"We hear much in our day of preventive medicine and how much it is accomplishing for the reduction of the death rate among mankind and how it is adding to the length of life until a great many people think that after a while there is to be no more disease and we are to have a little heaven here on earth and scarcely need to have a heaven hereafter.

"There is no doubt at all that we are greatly decreasing the amount of infectious disease and above all preventing the inroads of the epidemics, that used to cause such serious ravages in the past. Less than a century ago we used to have an epidemic of typhus fever in New York city that came in on some of the immigrant vessels every five years. About every ten years there would be an epidemic of Asiatic cholera that would carry off a great many people. Then there was bubonic plague, occasionally, and there was typhoid fever every autumn but most of these are now things of the past.

"It is true that unfortunately in the autumn we still have a series of cases of typhoid fever but that is because people have gone out into the country and have contracted it out there and brought it back into the city with them. It is no longer the city affliction that it used to be and has become a rural disease. There is nearly always gross negligence whenever it occurs, so that no wonder we have the expression, 'Whenever anybody dies of typhoid fever, somebody ought to be hanged.' This is quite true because for the development of typhoid someone must have allowed the excreta of a typhoid fever patient to get into the food or drink of a healthy individual.

"We have not only gotten rid of these scourges of humanity with the help of preventive medicine, but we have greatly lessened the inroads of the children's diseases, and diphtheria and scarlet fever are not at all the fatal diseases that they used to be. Smallpox is now so rare as to be scarcely dreaded. It used to be so common that nobody quite hoped to escape it. We have letters from mothers written a little more than a hundred years ago telling friends that their daughter of sixteen or seventeen was a pretty girl and likely to make a good match provided smallpox didn't spoil her beauty. We scarcely think of any such danger now. We would not have to think of it at all if we could only muzzle the anti-vaccinationists and get them to obey the laws properly.

"No wonder that human life has been lengthened so that while when I was a boy the average length of life was about 46 years, now the average is nearly sixty. A great many people think that we are going to go right on lengthening life. We shall probably make it five years longer but scarcely beyond that. Indeed the insurance people tell us that there are fewer alive at 75 and 80 now than there used to be in proportion to the population. We are not going to make a race of centenarians though we are going to make one of longevity.

"It must not be forgotten, however, that this prolongation of life is mainly due to saving the lives of children. One in five of all those born used to die before the age of one year and another one in five used to die before the age of five years, leaving only three-fifths of the children born alive after five. Now we lose one in twenty under the age of one year and one in twenty more under the age of five years, leaving eighteen-twentieths to come to maturity. This adds greatly to the average of human life.

No Increase in Suffering.

You must not think, however, that this is decreasing the amount of suffering in the world or the necessity for caring for patients. Indeed it is having exactly the opposite effect. A great many children who used to die under the age of five are weaklings and have to be cared for much more in later life than would otherwise be the case. We are putting off death but almost needless to say we are not limiting it. It is still true, as the Irishman said, that life is a dangerous thing at best and very few of us get out of it alive. People live on to be past forty and then die of the lingering diseases, the so-called chronic degenerative diseases. These all require a good deal of nursing. Heart disease has now become the captain of the men of death taking off more people than any other. It has replaced tuberculosis in this regard which used to carry off the largest number. We have reduced the death rate from tuberculosis by more than one half except among young women, who cultivating the boyish form, stay thin or wear very sheer stockings in the winter time and so have no adequate protection against the cold.

"Heart disease usually takes three to five years except in the cases where people are mercifully taken away suddenly almost before they know they have heart disease. Even this, however, leads to need for nursing because some people who have no real heart disease are so afraid that they may die suddenly that we have to have nurses and sometimes hospital beds for them for months each year.

Cancer Is Increasing.

"Thirty years ago we hoped that cancer would yield its mystery and that finding the cause of the disease we would be able to prevent it. Now we know that cancer is increasing all the time and that this increase is not only relative for the number of people alive, but absolute, so that there is more of the disease. More people live on the cancer age, which is sometimes after forty. Every year that you live beyond forty, you are just that much more likely to die of cancer. If taken early most of the cancer patients can be saved, but practically all the internal cancers cannot be reached until they are so far disseminated that complete removal is impossible. Other means besides the knife have proved somewhat helpful in prolonging life but not in saving it. Cancer cases have to be nursed for two or three years before death comes to relieve them and they represent one of the severest disease conditions that we have.

"After this it will be easy for you to understand why we are constantly needing more nurses, and also why more hospitals. We are lengthening life, but we are not saving suffering. We are actually adding to the amount of suffering among mankind.

"It is very interesting to see how hospitals have increased in number in the past sixty years, that is since 1870, when the introduction of the trained nurse and of Listerian methods into hospitals and the application of the principles of Pasteur, made hospitals very different from used to dread hospitals very much. Even when I was a boy, it was as much a disgrace to go to a hospital as to go to a poor house. If you had a relative in the world who had any sense of decency, he would keep you out of a hospital. No wonder, there was this prejudice against hospitals, because they were in an awful condition, there were no nurses, just some old scrub women who distributed meals and gave the patients their medicine. The trained nurse did not come to this country until 1872, and then the institution spread very slowly. Blockley in Philadelphia did not get his trained nurses until 1884.

"There were not many hospitals. Altogether there were less than 150 throughout the country. Now we have more than fifty times as many, something like 8,000. In 1870 we had 35,000 beds in the hospitals for 38 millions of people. Now we have nearly 800,000 beds for one hundred and twenty millions of people. Well, but we have too many hospitals some will say. We should have even more than we have. Even now in the spring and the fall especially, if there is any tendency toward the development of influenza, it is sometimes rather difficult to get into a hospital, just as it is sometimes rather difficult to get trained nurses under those circumstances. Remember that these figures do not include the orphan asylums nor the homes for the old nor the insane asylums, nor any other of the institutions where chronic disease is particularly cared for. We have one additional more than 200,000 beds for these. We need, these accommodations and more. In the course of the next five years we shall probably have ten thousand hospitals in this country and millions of beds for the care of patients. Even then we shall not have our full quota for we need more than that and certain countries have actually supplied them.

Pleanty of Room for Nurses.

"You can understand then that there is likely to be plenty of room for nurses and abundant occupation for them for a number of years yet. In the meantime, a young woman could receive no better training for the conservation of her own health and that of others than that which is afforded by the training that is given to a nurse at the institution of her body and the proper care of it, she learns how to raise children and prevent disease in those who are near and dear to her, and if she takes her training in the proper spirit it makes a lady of her. In my recent 'History of Nursing,' I emphasized how much Florence Nightingale wanted to have the opportunity to be trained in a Sisters hospital. She said, 'For what training is there compared with that of a Catholic nun?' Those ladies who are not Sisters have not the chastened temper, the Christian grace, the accomplished loveliness and energy of the regular nun. I have seen something of different kinds of nurses and am no longer young, and so I do not speak from enthusiasm but from experience. There is nothing like the training in these days which the good Sisters can give to young women.

"No wonder that she placed the highest emphasis on the religious character of her nurses. She was deeply religious and though not a Catholic was deeply intent on training others in religious views. She used to say, 'Go your way straight to God's work, in simplicity and singleness of heart.' She believed that religion did not consist in mere belief, not in faith alone, but must manifest itself in good works. She had no sympathy at all with Luther's expression that the Epistle of St. James was an epistle of straw because he praised good works. For her the essence of religion was, disregard of self, useful care for others, efficient service of God and our brethren. Miss Nightingale had demonstrated by her work in the Crimea that these words of hers were not idle. She risked her life among the fever stricken out there, actually developed the fever, and was nursed back to life by the Good Sisters who had accompanied her. No wonder they said of her, 'Wherever there is disease in its most dangerous form, there is that incomparable woman sure to be seen. She is a ministering angel without any exaggeration.'

"Now that is the spirit of the Nightingale nurse and I know that it is the spirit that has been inculcated here in your Benedictine Hospital at Kingston, for I know your Benedictine Sisters not only here at Kingston but in other places throughout the country, and I know that if you have been properly receptive, you have received that inspiration for the care of others in need of work. Miss Nightingale spoke so well. You are needed for good work beyond the bounds of the hospital now and I welcome you out into the larger world beyond the hospital doors."
